INT. THE SUPREME ELDER COUNCIL CHAMBERS - DAY

Focus on spot on the floor, illuminated by sunlight. It's serene, almost peaceful. Suddenly, the SUPREME PHYSICAL ELDER falls into frame, crying out. They're frozen in terror as they huff for breath, doing their best to try to crawl away from whatever boogie man is chasing them.

BOOTS STEP INTO FRAME, and as the person kneels, we see it's GENESIS, settles on his haunches next to the terrified Elder.

GENESIS

Well, isn't this interesting? All this time, I've dreamt about this, it never has quite happened this exact way. You'd think with the amount of time I've spent planning, the money I've invested, the man power... I would have foreseen this.

The Elder tries to crawl, but Genesis holds them in place with a tight grip.

GENESIS (CONT'D)

I know where I went wrong. I expected you to be stronger. You're the Physical? Aren't you supposed to be some type of godly specimen? With the strength of Hercules?

SUPREME PHYSICAL ELDER

Please, I don't know who you are or how I've wronged you, but-

GENESIS

That's right, you don't. And that's okay. I've accepted that to you, I, a lowly human, wouldn't be worthy of recognition. You've been content to live here, away from us, all this time. When one of us dies at your hands, I bet you even celebrate.

SUPREME PHYSICAL ELDER

No, we don't! We just wanted to be safe-

GENESIS

And I just wanted my mother alive. We don't always get what we want, do we? Except... just this once, I think I will.

He reveals a rope that he FLINGS over the head of the Elder, tightening around their neck.

Pan up to Genesis' face as he strangles the Elder, locked in concentration, the rage and hatred he has carried for years releasing in this twisted form of catharsis.

Off his face, we -

CUT TO BLACK.
